An Editor's Opinion.

Beware of anything that the maker is afraid to own as his own. One reason, among the great many others which we could give why the justly famed Swift's Specific has attained such a large sale, is the fact that Mr. Swift, the original inventor, gave his name to it. This wonderful medicine continues to grow in popularity, notwithstanding the papers are full of the advertisments of imitators and followers. Indeed it has come to pass that this medicine is doing good in curing those who have become seriously effected from taking other mixtures put up by nobody knows who .- Temperance Advocate, Atlanta.

An Established Success---The Largest Advertisers in the South.

It would be superflous, of course, to "call attention" to the page advertisement which appears in this issue of the Times Union of the Swift Specific company. This is no experiment with them, or an effort to thrust a new and worthless drug upon the market. This blood purifier has been on the market for years, and grows in favor and popularity each year, and calls forth continually scores and hundreds of endorsements from those unfortunates who have been relieved and cured by its use. The growth of their business is immense. They now occupy an entire building in one of the principal business blocks in Atlanta, employing scores of men and ship thousands of dollars of this medicine to all parts of the United States and to foreign countries.

They are bold advertisers, ranking among the largest in the world, and by far the largest in the south. By this means they have made known what they have, and its merits maintain its popularity wherever introduced.

One lesson they teach the business man, however. Some imagine that they or their business are too well known to need any advertising. This company, which is not only extensive advertisers, have spent annually thousands of dollars for the past twens ty years, ranking also among the shrewdest advertisers, make no abates ment in it, but increase rather than diminish their expenditures in this line and in the same territory. They also testify to the superiority of newspaper advertising. - Jacksonville, Fla., Times-Union.

SMALL CHANGE.

English peas, home grown, were on the market here last Wednesday. Candidates are getting their tickets for the primary election printed cheaply and promptly at this office. We hear that two young ladies had a "hair pulling" in a strawberry field near Milan a few days since. Shocks ing! Bro. Lewis requests us to announce that he will hold a communion service at the C. P. Church to morrow night. Rev. John W. Jones preached at the Methodist church last Sunday and his congregation were well pleased with his discourse, The blackberries were not all killed. Mrs. Rankin handed us a briar full of blooms the other day. The crop the etc. will be very short, though The ladies of the Methodist church will have a nice ice cream and strawberry supper at the College next Tuesday night. All are invited. Jimmy McClaran has just finished a handsome and artistic job of painting for us. He is an excellent, careful workman, and his prices are low. A cabin belonging to Wils. Williamson, Esq., near the cemetery, occupied by Carl Carter, colored, was burned last aturday. Loss not very of the convention.

Large quantities of strawberries have been shipped from here this week and prices are holding up very well. We'll give the figures when the season is over.

A Chicago fruit drummer the other day "shot off his lip" about southern people in an offensive manner, when he got a handsome drubbing by a gentleman present.

George Heathcock, while picking first choice. strawberries for Mr. E. A. Collins last Thursday, was bitten by a garden snake. His arm was very much swollen from the effect.

The teachers' association will meet at the college to-day at ten o'clock. An interesting program has been prepared and a pleasant time is expected. All are invited to attend.

Mr. Crump last Tuesday sold his fine Jersey bull calf, King Lory, to Mr. D. B. Clark. He is a son of Reveille, No. 13,327 and Golden Duchess 4th. No. 3739, and a beautiful animal.

Mr. Blanton, the lay evangelist, of Nashville, will begin a series of meetings at the Methodist church soon. He is one of the most successful revivalists in the state. Let all come to hear him.

Our handsome and industrious young friend, Rich Person, has bought the residence of Mr. Wils. Mathis, on Main street, and gone to housekeeping, his sister, Miss Tillie, having moved here to take charge for him. We learn that young Will Keaton, whom we mentioned last week as meeting with the accident at the saw mill in Atwood, died of lockjaw Wednesday morning. The leg had been amputated the day before, but not in time to save his life. His father, we learn, is almost wild with grief.

Mr. W. P. Green, who was a native of this county and a successful planter, was killed by a negro named Smith in St. Bernard parish, La., last week. The negro was afterward lynched by a mob. Mr. Green went south from here about 1852, and lived fifty nine years old, and has a sister. who stole them has a brother near and one to be long remembered for nephews and nieces near here. vention, to meet in Trenton May 29th. Judges and cierks of the primary election will open the polls at 9 o'clock a. m. and close them at 4 p. m.

J. T. TUCKER. Chairman.

Two mules were stolen or strayed from Mr. R. J. Seymore's last Sunin Louisiana since 1855. He was day night, and he tainks the party remains were buried in the fam'ly up considerably, as others have been graveyard at Concord church last stolen during the last year, and it is the devilment.

FREEMAN AND CALDWELL.

We are glad to believe that the people of this county generally desire to support both Judge Freeman and Judge Caldwell for Supreme Judge. The county can give each of them her entire 32 votes in the convention at Nashville, yet she can give neither of them more than 32 votes. If Judge Caldwell was not a candidate the county could give Judge Freeman only 32 votes--if Judge Freeman was not a candidate she could give Judge Caldwell only 32 votes. Let her give Judge Freeman her full support for one place, and Judge Caldwell her full support for the other place. She must do this, or support only one of them for one place, and some man out of the county for the other place. It is hoped by the mu tual friends of Judge Freeman and Judge Caldwell all over the state that their home county will endorse them both alike, by giving each of them her full and hearty support.

One of the most influential men in Dyer county is doing all in his; ower to secure the success of both Judge Freeman and Judge Caldwell. A leading newspaper in another county has come out for both of them. Then would it not be remarkable if this county should oppose one of her sons and reject the other, when their friends out of the county are supporting both of them? It would indeed, and we think of such a course for a moment. She would be glad to see both Judge Freeman and Judge Caldwell nominated, as they may be, and she will do what she can to secure that result. Other counties, having two candidates, are pursuing that course, he cause they think it right and also the better policy. Judge Caldwell and his friends, everywhere, so far as we county to support both Judge Freeman and himself. They do not ask more than that, and they think they are entitled to that much. Why condemu one of our candidates and support a stranger in his stead? There is no good reason for doing so, and we do not believe it will be done.

A Pleasant Pienic.

On last Saturday, the 8th inst., the beauty and chivalry of our village met at Edwards' spring for a picuic. Nature had exhausted her bounty in providing the day with loveliness, and the breezes swept along laughing in unison with the glad hearts of the par ticipants. Over-head the sky wore such brightness, the sun shone with such brilliancy as it can only upon such an occasion. At the spring was selected a beautiful green sward upon which to gather, and it was early covered with as glad hearts as ever picniced under the trees.

When at noon-tide, fair bands spread upon the grass a dinner fit for the gods, the trees above, the creek below, and the grass around seemed to rejoice. Ample justice was done to the meal, and 'midst joy and gladness the crowd dispersed in twos and fours through the woods. Whether there was fishing (for heart.) or not might have been read upon the blushing cheek of many a fair one that afters noon. Upon a choice spot, those who were so inclined "tripped it on the light fantastic toe" while the music of the violin played an accompanis ment to the song of love.

Altogether the day was one of rare enjoyment to all who were present, more than all, for the fair ones whose
